VISIT TO SUPERMARKET

JMians are the building blocks for tomorrow's bright side!!! They need to aware of how a household runs. The trip to supermarket was to make them understand how in a big world of chaos and chores we segregate things according to types and utilities. They saw aisle of fruits, vegetables, groceries and other household and general utility products.

The trolley they carried along made them understand out of the vast world of ideas you only basket in what you need to. It's certainly important to be aware of availability but only buy necessity.

The puzzle of jumping in lanes and fitting in the gap is not what we teach at JMIS rather the concept of discipline to queue in and wait for your turn at billing counter was well groomed in the little minds.
